

Help us protect your school from cuts

Schools are facing average cuts of 8% per pupil by 2020 due to government funding plans, according to the government's National Audit Office

The government also plans to introduce a new funding formula that means some schools will lose even more money.

UNISON is campaigning to stop funding cuts in your local schools.

Schools are already facing restructuring and redundancies because of funding pressures. And now costs and inflation are rising, making things worse.

We need our schools to be safe, healthy and happy places for children and young people to learn in. But dedicated support staff are bearing the brunt of the cuts in admin, facilities, cleaning – and the classroom.

School staff tell us they are near breaking point despite their commitment to keep schools running.

We are asking parents, teachers, politicians and the public to work with us to protect your school

If you work in a school...

- Talk to your colleagues, your union rep and your management team about the cuts.
- Join 250,000 other people who work in schools in UNISON – the union for school support staff in the UK. The more members who speak out, the stronger your voice will be in your school.
